SCREENING AND DUE DILIGENCE PROCESS FOR RECRUITMENT AGENTS

Screening

While different companies may have different internal procedures and requirements, the screening and due diligence process below set out a general non-exhaustive guideline for companies to consider to supplement their existing internal processes:

Legal compliance

- Recruitment agents operating in Malaysia must be a registered business entity under Suruhanjaya Syarikat Malaysia (SSM).
- The recruitment agency must register with the Ministry of Human Resources for a License C which is required under the Private Employment Agencies (Amendment) Act 2017 before they can carry out any recruiting activity in Malaysia.
- The recruitment agent must obtains appropriate work permits for the particular nature of work required by the company and ensure they do not exceed the quota of foreign workers permitted by the Ministry of Home Affairs.
- The recruitment agent should not have record of legal sanctions in the past 3 years.
- The recruitment agent in Malaysia must ensure they only partner with legally registered recruitment agents in the country of origin of the foreign workers.

*list of registered recruitment agency in Malaysia can be accessed here.

Social responsibility

- The recruitment agent formally expresses a commitment to uphold the company's social standards, including standards relating to not using child labour, forced labour and bonded labour and any code of ethical conduct.
- The recruitment agent has written policy and commitments statements that address social standards, including standards relating to not using child labour, forced labour and bonded labour and any code of ethical conduct.

Recruitment fees and expenses

- The recruitment agent has a policy stating that workers are not charged recruitment fees.
- The recruitment agent has a procedure for verifying that workers are not charged fees by country of origin agents and sub-agents.
- The recruitment agents must provide with a detailed breakdown of fees and costs to the company.

Employment contracts

- The recruitment agent has a policy to ensure that workers' contracts meet legal and company requirements.
- The recruitment agent provides valid employment contracts to the workers clearly indicating the workers' principal employer and details of working and living conditions with sufficient time for workers to understand prior to signature.

Earthworm Foundation Human Rights Based Due Diligence Tool on Ethical Recruitment

Responsible businesses, consumers, international organisations and civil society are calling for ethical recruitment of workers in supply chains to promote workers rights and to eradicate forced labour and human trafficking. In Malaysia, complex government policies on the recruitment of foreign workers, lengthy administrative procedures, and the need for registered agents for hiring in origin country has often resulted in employers depending on recruitment agents, brokers and contractors to source foreign workers. While most companies conduct some form of basic due diligence on their recruitment and generally pay legally mandated fees in Malaysia, but few look into the human rights impacts of their recruitment processes. Companies also have limited oversight on recruitment process and fees paid by workers they employ.

It is important to note that deception in recruitment, contract substitution and debt bondage are indicators of forced and bonded labour. This contradicts the No Exploitation commitments made by many major palm oil buyers and producers. Thus, due diligence is required by companies to ensure their operations and supply chains are not at risk of labour exploitation while promoting decent work opportunities.

What is the purpose of this tool?

The primary purpose of implementing this tool is to assist companies to fulfil their corporate responsibilities to respect workers' rights, particularly, their commitment on ethical recruitment practices. By undertaking a human rights due diligence on their recruitment practices, the companies will be able to:

- i) increase transparency of recruitment practices, processes and costs
- ii) assess the risks of its recruitment practices, and to prevent any unintended negative consequences to the company, business partners and suppliers as well as the workers
- iii) understand the strength and gaps of its recruitment practices, and to undertake necessary actions to mitigate risks
- iv) support information gathering to remedy any negative impacts resulting from any forms of unethical recruitment practices
- v) support reporting on recruitment practices to buyers, brands or other interested stakeholders

Download the tool here for more details.

This is a sample of due diligence screening questions that a third party company or internal auditor may ask from the company's recruitment agency.

Agent Evaluation Category	Key Questions
Cost structure of agent or agency	 What fees are workers charged in the country of origin and in Malaysia? What is policy on loans to workers who cannot afford recruitment fee? Do you offer a zero cost to workers recruitment option
Standard employment contract	where the employer bears the full costs of recruitment? • What employment contract is used? Is it consistent with employer requirements/standards?
Geographic sourcing area	 What are the local and regional trends in terms of fees workers are charged? Are there any specific requirements for workers from certain countries?
Worker selection process	 Are sub-agents used? And if so, how? Are potential workers given an accurate representation of the type of job, working and living conditions? What is the approach to pre-employment orientation?
Worker selection criteria	 What is the method (if any) for skills and knowledge assessment? What assurances are there that skill requirements are met?
Passport, travel, and medical examination process	 Do workers hold their own passport throughout entire recruitment process? Is a medical examination conducted? By whom and who bears the cost? Are the results share with the prospective workers? How are travel and logistical arrangements made? How are domestic travel arrangements made? Who bears the cost?
Pre-departure orientation	 Was orientation performed, and by whom? What areas were covered in the orientation? How does the orientation align with the factory/mill/estate orientation program?

Source: adapted from Business for Social Responsibility (BSR) Migrant Worker Management Toolkit, https://www.bsr.org/reports/BSR_Migrant_Worker_Management_Toolkit.pdf

DISCLAIMER: The information in this document is prepared for a brief and general guideline on ethical recruitment and has been compiled using various sources publicly available. Efforts have been made to ensure that relevant information has been included; however EF does not claim that the information in this guideline is exhaustive. Further, this document does not purport to contain all the information that the end user or reader including but not limited to employers, buyers, importers, manufacturers, suppliers or distributors (collectively "End User") may desire to understand regarding the processes, practices or laws in Malaysia in respect of ethical recruitment. The intent of this document is to provide basic guidelines which may be of some help to the end user. With the help of this document, the end user should ensure that the relevant laws, rules, regulations and guidelines are applicable, suitable, updated and relevant to their company or business as a whole. EF, its subsidiaries, related corporation, affiliates, associates, business partners (collectively, "EF Group") and EF's directors, shareholders, officers, employees, agents, representatives and advisers ("Representatives") do not:- (i) make any representation, undertaking or warranty, express or implied, nor any of them, to the extent permitted by law, have any responsibility or liabilities whatsoever in respect of the truth, accuracy or completeness of, or omission from, this document or any related documents or information, whether written or oral, supplied at any time or in respect of any statement, disclosure, or opinion expressed or omitted; (ii) owe any duty of care or otherwise owed by EF Group or its Representatives to the End User in respect of or in connection with this document; (iii) have any obligation to update this document or to correct any inaccuracies, incompleteness or omissions therein; and (iv) accept any responsibility or liability to any reader or third party for any damages, loss, cost or expense, or any loss of profits, business or anticipated savings or for any consequential loss whatsoever, whether directly or indirectly, due to or in connection with any negligence, error, misstatement, misrepresentation or omission by EF Group or its Representatives.